

ISAND

Open-cell polishing sponge | universal | 120/135 | velcro

The layered polishing sponge is a product intended for use with polishing compounds. The cooperation of the backing foam and working foam equalizes the pressure on the polished surface while increasing the durability of the polishing pad. The hard backing foam increases the polishing power as well as stability and comfort of work. The appropriate thickness of the working foam minimizes the possibility of cuts of the edges of the polished elements. The open-cell structure stabilizes the temperature of the polished surface reducing the probability of holograms. The slightly cut side profile allows for greater safety in hard-to-reach places.
